Myrio Corp. Monday announced the release of version 3.2 of its "Myrio IP Video Platform."

The provider of Internet-protocol video software and services said its latest release "enables broadband-service providers to increase operational efficiencies when deploying IP-based video and interactive services. In addition, the new version is easier for operators to use, adapts to their unique markets and improves system management."

The vendor added that the upgrade improves upon both back-office subscriber- and content-management application "TotalManage" and end-user application "Myrio Interactive."
